Don't let your children harm their future with one thoughtless click!

Join James Munton for a fascinating and entertaining presentation about online safety.

James Munton is the author of CyberSense: The 7 Steps to Keeping Your Kids Safe Online. He is one of the busiest school speakers in the country.

In this important presentation, you'll learn why your children's online activity can have a lasting effect on their future success. You'll also discover why parents must play a part in helping their children be responsible online.

Middle and high school students face online threats from many sources. Consider the following:

- 1 out of every 5 kids has been sexually solicited online
- 1 in every 3 teenagers has experienced online harassment
- 1 in 4 kids plays online games with strangers
- 1 in 6 kids has received sexually suggestive photos of someone they know via text message
- Children are 51 times more likely to be the victims of identity theft than adults

Our children are plugged into the Internet via laptops, phones, and online gaming. Parents cannot be expected to monitor their children's online activity at all times. It is essential that kids are made aware of the risks of sharing too much information online. That means you as a parent or guardian need to become more aware too!
